AT SCYLLA FINE JEWELRY...

We take pride in our efforts to provide a sustainable line of high-end gold body jewelry. The vast majority of our gold is obtained through refining jewelry that people no longer use. In some cases, we are even able use the gemstones from these pieces as well.

The objective is to recirculate existing gold - in the form of new jewelry - to avoid contributing to the detrimental effects mining new gold has yielded not only on our ecosystem, but indigenous peoples as well.

Call us to find out how we can re-purpose your solid gold jewelry.

Scylla Fine Jewelry strives to provide eco-friendly options, not only with our gold, but with our diamond selection as well.

The majority of our diamonds comes from a recycling program. Each one has been removed from previously worn jewelry, re-cut if necessary, re-polished and re-graded before being introduced back into the market. This not only helps meet the demand for these precious gemstones, but helps lessen the detrimental effect caused by the mining of new diamonds.
